

NERO MKII

Bandit9's Nero MKII motorcycle is a mod iteration of Chang Jiang 750, with upgraded custom parts including a custom gas tank, rear cowl, handlebars and foot pegs. The entire unit is finished in matte black and looks, frankly, like something you'd ride into the apocalypse. Harleys don't have anything on this. But act fast if you want one to call your own: it's limited edition and only five out of nine units produced are still up for grabs.

OOZI

The playful word "oozi" means "house" in Mandarin, it's also a unique colonial looking mansion in Singapore that holds art gallery 28th Fevrier and acts as the clubhouse of The Watch Fund (buy watches, wear it, sell it for profit). The 3,500 sq metres compound is an architectural delight, and its gallery houses artists like Jamie Salmon, Samantha "Sticker Lady" Lo and photographer Dominic Khoo (who owns the space with other partners). The slant here is on contemporary and urban art; it's an attempt to reimagine gallery space, and it's available for private events as well.
